for a Sustainable Future
Cornell University

Atkinson Center Topical Lunch

Title: *The United Nations Sustainable Development Solutions Network:
What Cornell's Membership Means for You*

Hosts: Lauren Barredo (Head of Partnerships, UN SDSN) and David L. Kay (Senior Extension Associate, Dev. Soc.; Fellow, Atkinson Center for a Sustainable Future; Affiliate, Program on Infrastructure Policy)

Date: Tuesday, May 21st, 2019; 12:00 – 1:15pm, 300 Rice Hall

Abstract: Last year, the Atkinson Center joined the SDSN on behalf of all of us at Cornell University. The SDSN mobilizes global scientific and technological expertise to promote practical solutions for sustainable development, including the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and the Paris Climate Agreement. You may know their publications, including the World Happiness Report and the SDG Index. Staff from the NYC SDSN office will introduce themselves to the campus community, highlighting what SDSN membership might mean for our teaching, research, and outreach efforts in relation to monitoring and accelerating progress towards the 17 wide-ranging SDGs.
